LOOK WHAT'S LIVING
INSIDE YOUR TELEVISION.

THE DEAD DON'T ALWAYS STAY BURIED...

Their appetites are insatiable—the appetite for human flesh that only the living dead possess. On a quiet, tree-lined street evil has arrived in a most ordinary way: an old television set. It receives a single channel, one that not only shows the same film over and over—a horror film where zombies rise from the grave and kill—but also frees the gnarled, evil monsters. And once out, they're not going back! They like the real world. They've already killed five people and want more blood... the new family in the neighborhood will be perfect prey!

Spine-tingling excitement, terrific special effects and on-the-edge suspense give THE VIDEO DEAD life. These people weren't ready for the carnage created by creatures known as the living dead—are you?

Like "DERANGED" and "THE TEXAS CHAINSAW MASSACRE" this exciting horror movie is based quite extensively on the gruesome deeds of real-life killer Ed Gein. The villain, Charles Kissinger, meets a fate similar to Tony Perkins in "PSYCHO" while his innocent son is blamed for the murders of several young girls.

TOURIST TRAP

Starring CHUCK CONNORS, TANYA ROBERTS, JON VAN NESS, JOCELYN JONES

Horrific thrills abound in this grisly tale of a group of youngsters and their fatal fascination with a madman and his dolls.

A group of unsuspecting friends happen upon a novelty in the desert, the LOST OASIS, a curious and eerie roadside roadside goldmine of decaying, but strangely life-like mannequins run by Slausen (Chuck Connors), an eccentric, who has been harmless. Slausen has one warning for the youngsters: Stay away from Davey, Slausen's reclusive and disturbed brother.

The youngsters' curiosity gets the best of them and they go exploring. The trap is sprung! Amidst flying objects, slamming doors, scarves that strangle on their own, empowered by some hidden force, the trap slowly closes in on the group. The "Creature" Davey and his army of murderous mannequins make quick and brutal work of the friends, until only one remains.

Incredible psychic powers are unleashed as all the dolls are brought to life in an attempt to bring a nightmarish end to the final victim in this, the most deadly TOURIST TRAP!

THE SNAKE MOVIE

Directed by: Leland Payton
Written by: Leland Payton
Cast: Jack Renner, Gretta Ratliff, David Fritts, Cheryl Nickerson

An apocalyptic vision of greed, paranoia, crime, vengeance and death!

The vengeful father, the fanatical mother, the rebellious daughter, the unlucky son and the greedy son-in-law come to the remote hideout with the priceless stolen ancient Inca gold necklace. Then, mysteriously, deadly copperheads begin to appear. Is their neighbor, the artist, planting them? Are the snakes attracted by mice that infest the abandoned church? Is there another explanation having to do with the father's vicious murder of the South American family who found the Inca necklace? Magnum pistols and tearful prayers can't stop the hundreds of copperheads that surround them.

Seldom has vengeance been so exquisitely cruel or so graphically portrayed. Probably the snakiest of all the horror movies ever made and each and every copperhead in the movie was fully equipped with poison. You can literally see venom dripping from the copperheads' fangs in the horrific conclusion.

Graphic and powerful, COPPERHEAD is a tale of crime and punishment revealed through dreams and paranoid suspicions. It moves with lightning quick cutting and a pounding, relentless electronic score. Approx. 95 minutes, color, rated R, #1019.

Newlyweds rent a room in a house occupied by the landlady and her son, a three foot dwarf who leers at them through evil eyes in his distorted face. Strange sounds prompt the young bride to investigate while her husband goes off to find work. She discovers that young girls have been chained to a wall and tortured in a secret room. They have been kept drugged while the dwarf forces them to submit to his own carnal desires and to other men who have paid to use them. Discovered, the wife is captured by the evil dwarf. The husband is baffled by his wife's disappearance but luckily happens across a clue and calls the cops. They rush to the house and uncover the sordid evil-doings. The landlady and her evil spawn ultimately pay for their sinful ways!

BOARDING HOUSE

WHERE THE RENT WON'T KILL YOU, BUT SOMETHING ELSE WILL!

On September 18, 1972, the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman were found mutilated following a party at their house. Ten years later, Jim, a young bachelor with telekinetic powers, moves into the evil house. He turns it into a "boarding house" for beautiful young women - totally unaware of the demonic energies that fill the house. Brutal slayings and bizarre accidents begin to occur, but Jim seems oblivious to all the horror and plans a party exactly 10 years after the Hoffman's fateful party. The film depicts the conflict between Good and Evil taking place as the house becomes an open gateway to Hell.

The Bronx. In the year 2000. The choking city has been reduced to a decaying, desolate wasteland. Its crumbled remains infested with swarms of vicious street gangs and outcast scavengers.

General Buildings—an imperialistic mega-corporation—is proceeding with its sinister plan to rebuild the doomed no-mans-land into a perfect, ordered metropolis. The Bronx is to be obliterated. Its few remaining inhabitants to be annihilated by the company's own secret army of sadistic death squads—the Disinfestors!

But beneath the twisted rubble, in the city's endless underground labyrinth, a valiant rebel alliance of street gangs arms itself for the final Disinfestor onslaught. A fierce legion of resistance fighters—ready to die for their homeland. And ready to kill for it!

Frankie Dunlan is a Vietnam vet—a freed prisoner of war. Yet he's still a prisoner—imprisoned in a new life to which he can't adjust. Although the battlefield may have changed, the war continues to rage.

With no job, no money and little hope, Frankie takes to the streets, shocked by the depravity of the neighborhood—of childhood friends turned junkies and prostitutes. Disillusioned and enraged, Frankie calls on the vicious combat techniques of raw power and heroic behavior he learned in Vietnam to stand up to the street scum. It's brutal gun battles, hand to hand combat and guerilla warfare—all experienced on the streets of New York!

In a desperate intergalactic search for the frightened little alien, his brother Nukie® mistakenly lands in Africa where he is befriended by African twins. Together they journey through the laughter and adventure of talking lions, a greedy witch doctor, a charming chimpanzee, a feisty nun, a compassionate scientist and an outrageous romantic computer named E.D.D.I. The bewildered Nukie® follows the telepathic whispers of his brother, always believing that "If you don't know what to do, look to the stars and wish; if it's a good wish, the stars will hear you and it will happen." It will take you home again.

A demonic black magic curse centuries old, turns the world's most beautiful doll into the world's most savage killing machine. Now, this "Dolly" has her deranged eyes aimed at an innocent little girl named Jessica, and will do anything to possess her. Bizarre events explode into a ferocious frenzy of madness and mayhem. A housekeeper is torn apart. A nightwatchman is hacked to pieces. As the body count rises and the carnage continues, Jessica loses her soul to her new "playmate". To save his daughter, Jessica's father must enter a nightmarish world where dark powers of evil have reigned supreme...until now!

IT'S LOOSE...IT'S ANGRY... AND IT'S GETTING HUNGRY!

A party of yachting teenagers get caught in a terrible fog and take refuge on Dog Island, where it's rumored that the only inhabitants are an old eccentric woman, her son and a pack of vicious dogs. But that's not all. They soon discover that a huge, grotesque mutant reaching over seven feet tall, who has been chowing down on dogs since his rape-victim mother died, is eager to meet them. His only means of survival is by killing, and when the teenagers show up he's hungry enough to bite! This gruesome film will keep you on the edge of your seat. But you'd better eat before watching this, because after this movie you'll never be hungry again!

Someone is skulking around the graveyard, fishnet stockings. Not your typical gravedigger, beautiful young Monika yearns for the dead. But this is not just any grave. This is where Rob, the jilted necrophile from the original Nekromantik, can be found—just six feet under.

Nekromantik 2 is a horrific journey through one woman's sexual desires as she is torn between two lovers: one too dead and one too alive.

Directed by German horror auteur Jörg Buttgereit, this highly anticipated sequel's shocking conclusion lead German officials to seize the film during its Munich premiere. Nekromantik 2 is presented here uncut and uncensored in its gruesome entirety.

A deliciously wicked comedy.

Joe was a lonely psychotic killer. After all, it's tough to find the right woman when you're compelled to murder them after a few dates. When Kate walked into Joe's bar, she seemed perfect. She was gorgeous; she hated grapes. But each of them had a terrible secret; they were killers. Is that the kind of thing you can risk telling the one you love?

They shared passion;

they shared laughter; they shared a few little murders.

But then they met Herman, local plumber and part-time cannibal, and he wanted bodies.

Kate and Joe are two young lovers just trying to make ends meet. And everyone they meet, meets the end pretty quickly. It's not OZZIE AND HARRIET, but it is PSYCHOS IN LOVE. 88 minutes

"THE FIRST POST-MODERN HORROR FILM."
—RAMSEY CAMPELL

Photos: Christine Katalaus

Obsessed by death, director Jorg Buttgerit (Nekromantik) goes beyond the simplistic body count excesses of his peers to again find true horror. As one of the most unusual and compelling films to emerge from the European underground, The Death King (Der Todesking) is the chronicle of seven suicides over seven days, each prompted by a mysteriously powerful chain letter. Not for the squeamish, this film avoids the clichés and goes straight for the throat with unflinching scenes of horror.

Flesh-eating monsters? Got it! Nuclear blasts? Got it! Avenging cyborgs? Got it! What about babes? Got it, got it, got it! It's INVASION FOR FLESH AND BLOOD, and if you love camp, then pitch your tent right here and let filmmaker Warren Disbrow tell you a frightful tale.

When world-renowned psychic Sandra Lynn and the blood-thirsty aliens she was to contact survive a nuclear blast aimed at destroying the invading monsters, there is only one man - Professor Hertz - with the knowledge and technology to save the human race. Seizing the opportunity, he and the sexy Dr. Checov implant the soul of Sandra Lynn into their greatest creation, a gleaming, indestructible cyborg known as the Golden Slayer.

Soon the Golden Slayer and an unlikely sidekick are hot on the flesh-strewn trail of the marauding monsters. But time is running out. Can this heroic duo triumph and save mankind? Will the aliens' taste for human meat end in world domination? Experience the horror and hilarity of the INVASION FOR FLESH AND BLOOD.

Two Days And Nights Of Relentless Terror. Who Will Survive?

The weekend invitation seemed innocent enough—until three college beauties find they've RSVP'd to 48 hours of Hell in this terrifying thriller. The NIGHTMARE WEEKEND starts when a professor's evil assistant lures the girls into a bizarre scheme to perform hideous experiments. Using a brain implant that turns humans into gruesome zombies, she transforms her victims—and their unsuspecting dates—into clawing, dripping horrors with murder on their minds. The zombie creatures relentlessly pursue the professor's innocent daughter, but her screams go unheard. Only a benevolent computer can halt the terror—but will there be time? When insanity joins forces with technology—that's when the horror of NIGHTMARE WEEKEND begins.

Dreams. For most of us, they are a common, and sometimes pleasurable experience. But for some, dreams can be so disturbing, so impeding, they become something of an imprisonment of the mind, a very real Hell to which an individual is exiled every time he or she steps beyond that curtain of consciousness we call "sleep."

Welcome to the world of "NIGHT TERROR."

"NIGHT TERROR"—A new film from Paul Howard & Michael Weaver.

"NIGHT TERROR" explores the tortured world of one terrified young man plagued nightly by recurring, debilitating nightmares. When these nocturnal excursions of the mind grow out of control, he checks into a sleeping disorders clinic for the help he so desperately needs.

But not everyone at the Clinic is there to help.

Directed by FRITZ KIERSCH

What's a 20th-century man doing in the past? Battling for his life.

Students at a tiny New Hampshire college aren't the only ones who think eternity is the few minutes just before vacation. Professor Tarl Cabot already has his bags packed, his girlfriend waiting and a great golfing fishing destination in mind. But a vacation isn't what otherworldly forces have in mind for Tarl. They know he's one of the chosen few, a man who will be hurtled across time and space into the war-torn strife of the primitive counter-earth called Gor — and into the adventure of a thousand lifetimes.

The sword-and-sorcery sci-fi world of novelist John Norman now comes to the screen in this fast-paced adaptation directed by Fritz Kiersch (Children of the Corn) and filmed in stark, sand-swept locales that recreate the parched planet's forbidding terrain.

Urbano Barberini, a star in Franco Zeffirelli's classic operatic film Otello, plunges into the action film world as Tarl, the bookish professor-turned-warrior wielding liberator. Fighting alongside Tarl is the passionate woman warrior Talena, played by former Playboy playmate Rebecca Ferratti. And Oliver Reed (Oliver!, The Three Musketeers) as the brutish enslaver Sarm and Jack Palance (Shane) as the cunning Priest King are the kind of hiss-inspiring villains audiences love to hate.

Join Tarl's incredible adventure. Leave the everyday behind and journey to the far-off land where heroes are made and legends are born: Gor.

Four beautiful girls, Janet, Sue, Debbie and Lisa, out for a weekend of camping in the desert could never dream that a chance meeting at a gas station with Peter, an escaped mental patient and his companion Eric, would transform their weekend of fun into a macabre circus of terror.

A refreshing session of skinny dipping is cut short when the girls sense that they are being watched. Returning to the security of their camp they discover it to be ransacked and their car disabled.

While making an attempt to reach the highway, and safety, several of the girls are injured in an "accidental" rockslide. Peter and Eric capture the girls and terrorize them in a most grizzly and perverse way.

A horrifying fight for survival follows. Four terrorized desperate women against two brutal crazed men.

When this living nightmare is over who will be the final victims?

COMEDY

A superhero for the '90s.
And a swell guy.

Need a lift because your drain's clogged, your report card stinks or the boss hates your guts? Well, you've got it in the palm of your hand. Take a break and escape with Toxie for his most fantastic heroics yet!

By now, you know about Melvin Junko, the 98-pound weakling who fell into a vat of nuclear goo and emerged as a mutated superhero, a hideously deformed creature of superhuman size and strength. What you don't know is what happens next, which is where The Toxic Avenger Part II comes in. Toxie's Tromaville hometown is at peace. But can he rest, play gin rummy or take in a baseball game? Not with the mad moguls of Apocalypse Inc. on the loose. So Toxie sets out on an adventure that suits him to a "T": tackling toxic troubles from Tromaville to Tokyo!

Troma Inc., the nutso gang that turned out The Class of Nuke 'em High, Monster in the Closet, Troma's War and the original Toxic Avenger, spares nothing and no one in bringing this action-adventure/horror/sci-fi/comedy movie-of-the-future to us today. There are wisecracks, dumb jokes, political swipes, wild puns and monster-movie maulings. If one gibe doesn't get you, stick around. The next one will.

With all the fumes, toxins, things that ooze in the night and bad-guy business types looming on our horizon, it's nice to know there's a hero ready to fight them. With his mop at the ready, Toxie delivers sludgebusting hope and hilarity to all. After all, he is the first superhero from New Jersey!

TRAP THEM and KILL THEM

Color/93 Minutes

The Amazon jungle — so impenetrable that if its natural dangers don't get you... there's a good chance the aboriginal cannibals will!

This is what four adventurers faced after ignoring all warnings and perilous signals. Their fate — documented and detailed in this graphic account — is an experience of such horror and scope that it is advisable to view it with caution. Remind yourself that it is only a movie — and not the real thing!

Because some scenes are so explicit, children under 13 should not be permitted to see "TRAP THEM and KILL THEM."

MANHUNTER

While taking a mid-night swim at an upstate New York resort, socialite Laure Weissman is abducted by gangsters. They take her to an eerie and secluded island where she is held for ransom.

Unfortunately for Laure, her well-known and wealthy father has no intention of paying the ransom. Instead, he engages the services of Peter Hunt, one of New York's most successful private detectives.

The horror actually begins as Laure witnesses the magical powers and strange rituals of the natives on the island. Unaware, Peter begins searching for her here.

Encountering savage acts of murder and brutality as well as tracking down the abductors, Peter finally finds Laure — just as she is about to be sacrificed to Waikiki, a cannibal god of the island.

CITY OF THE WALKING DEAD

Just when you thought the dead were buried and the streets of the city were safe, CITY OF THE WALKING DEAD was released to haunt you. Following the success of zombie classics such as Night of the Living Dead and Dawn of the Dead, this thriller adds the modern horror of nuclear disaster. Over exposure to radiation in a nuclear accident turns a plane full of passengers into a mutant race of blood-crazed zombies. Due to the effects of radiation on their red blood cells, the zombies need constant transfusions of blood from living victims. They invade a large city, slashing throats and sucking out blood before their stunned victims have even hit the ground. A large hospital, airport, television station, and an army depot are some of the city's institutions which have their entire staffs massacred by an ever increasing horde of mutated zombies. The population of the city begins to drop rapidly, particularly young, beautiful women for whom our zombies have an never-ending appetite.

Due to the graphic nature of the violence, as well as considerable nudity, this film is unsuitable for children.

The mob kidnaps a young boy from his mother, Rebecca. The child is the son of a former gang member who stole six million dollars from this crime syndicate. The warning is deadly: "We get our money or the kid dies!"

Distraught, Rebecca goes to Hollywood — seeking the whereabouts of her missing husband. There she enlists the help of Sgt. Turquoise — a tough, veteran cop on the infamous Hollywood beat.

"Turquey" breaks all the rules to find the boy. It isn't long before Hollywood turns into a killing ground as he searches through the evil underworld to finish his job.

The mob thought they were going to have it their way, but the HOLLYWOOD COP proves them dead wrong!

NOTICE:

Since Pat Patterson's death in 1974, this film to many horror fans, was but a legend. But it has been found and lovingly transferred to video tape — with every gory detail intact! This lost classic, featuring Patterson's own "psycho-shock" technique, also contains a very special introduction by the absolute master of gore himself — Herschell Gordon Lewis.

A scientific genius, tormented by the untimely death of his wife, sets about to create the perfect woman through a series of bizarre experiments. His obsession leads him to remove various parts from the living bodies of lovely young women, and finally reconstructing them into a ravishing beautiful monster.

In 1974 Tobe Hooper (Poltergeist) unleashed a film that was an intense study of homicidal madness and psychological horror. It has since become a cult phenomenon and the most successful independent horror film ever made. This is the first ever comprehensive documentary on the making of this landmark film. It includes in-depth interviews with Gunner (Leatherface) Hansen, Edwin (The Hitchhiker) Neal, John (Grandpa) Dugan and Jim (The Cook) Siedow. Including footage from the film and never before seen production photos so sit back and experience the making of a nightmare...

DEAD KIDS

Murder is unknown to the inhabitants of the Mid-Western college town of Galesburg, Illinois, until teenager Lucy Brown is attacked by a knife-wielding maniac at a fancy dress party. Her date, Waldo Davis, is slain before her eyes. The town is shocked, but for Police Department Chief, John Brady, this is only the prelude. Another high-school kid, Bryan Morgan, is discovered - very dead and horribly mutilated. Worse still, the Crime Lab. pathologists are convinced two murderers are at large.

MASSACRE AT CENTRAL HIGH

Now at last on video-cassette, the shocker that Vincent Canby, distinguished film critic of The New York Times, referred to as "... an underground classic." Essentially a teen-age version of "Death Wish," "Massacre" is about David, the new boy at Central High, who refuses to join the gang of hoodlums who virtually terrorize the entire student body. After failing to mobilize the victimized students into fighting back, David is permanently crippled by the gang. David's murderous revenge and its bloody aftermath makes for thrilling viewing. Not for the squeamish, the film builds to a shocking climax, unsurpassed in this genre.

Incredible Ending Of Any Motion Picture Ever!

THE DEVIL'S RAIN

Three centuries ago, Jonathan Corbis (Ernest Borgnine) led a coven of witches. Ancestors of the Preston family had betrayed Corbis and his Satanists by concealing their sacred book in which Corbis had inscribed the names of the people who had given themselves to the devil. For hundreds of years, the Prestons have been able to keep the book from Corbis and without the book, he is unable to deliver the souls of Satan.

Corbis, vowing to avenge himself of his betrayers, begins keeping his promise. Delve into the rituals and practices of devil worship — if you dare. The gruesomely horrifying consequences of satanism and possession will chill you to the bone . . . the movie itself will leave you speechless . . . the ending is one of the most horrifying of any motion picture ever! And the all-star cast delivers a story so convincing, you'll be thankful . . . that it is only a movie!

evil in its most innocent form

Scott and his not-so-intelligent friend, Nick, attempt to bring Stacey's favorite doll to life. After Scott's incantation, nothing happens! Disappointed, Nick leaves, and Scott walks back into the library where this story begins.

But something's amiss...the doll has come alive! To make matters worse, it is possessed by an all-powerful evil spirit that commands Scott to bring and sacrifice living souls to the doll, so it could feed and become... "the ultimate power of death and destruction."

This doll can transform into a look-a-like of anyone that it sees and it can imitate anyone that it hears. After ordering Scott to kill his friends one last time, Scott refuses. The doll presents itself in the form of Scott and kills several of his friends. In the finale, the doll possesses Scott and his wife Stacey and puts them against each other in an ultimate battle for survival!

During this intense story, you will see the most bizarre, imaginative murders, and you will embark on a visual adventure and experience the most incredible effects ever in a movie!

This is a movie you won't want to miss! This "B" movie gets an A-plus!

IT'S HUNGRY... AND IT'S BACK FOR SECONDS!

The first time, it was one family. Now, it's come back for all of us. Jan Michael Vincent stars in this startling sequel to the sci-fi classic — a terrifying action thriller about an alien predator on a killing rampage.

Deep below the Rocky Mountains lies a top-secret U.S. Defense facility. Here, scientists research the dangerous practice of transporting humans to parallel dimensions. And here something has gone terribly wrong — a scientist has returned from an interdimensional travel experiment mysteriously "infected." Soon, the scientist violently spawns a voraciously hungry alien being, one capable of regenerating itself over and over through a human "host."

The computers have sealed the "contaminated" facility, effectively trapping its inhabitants with the ultimate human predator. Now it's a fight to the death — and for the future of humanity.

Produced by Phillip Adams

Directed by talented Bruce Beresford ("Tender Mercies," "Breaker Morant") and written by David Williamson ("Gallipoli"), the award-winning "Don's Party" is not your usual social soiree.

Don, a young university professor, and his wife Kath have invited a few of their married, single and recently (or soon-to-be) separated friends over for a simple little get-together on election night. Don begins stocking the bar of their comfortable suburban home while Kath rushes the kids to bed.

Then people start to arrive, the liquor starts to flow — and the party starts to go hysterically askew. Any intellectual interest in the election is down the drain as the guests concentrate on drinking, eating, flirting, brawling, making love, getting caught, and drinking some more. Not exactly what Don had in mind, but it's definitely the outrageously, deliciously raunchy revel of the year!

As Cosmopolitan Magazine put it, "There's nothing so magical as alcohol when it comes to lubricating clusters of emotionally uptight, sexually seething individuals, a fact driven home scalding and uproariously in Don's Party. — A strictly A-list party!" What are you waiting for?

Exactly What Is The Thug Workout?"

The "Thug Workout" is an informative, as well as entertaining video that showcases the exercise regimens of a few of the inner city proven thugs. It provides viewers with a hardcore urban approach to getting into, and staying in shape. "We went from hood to hood", park to park, and corner to corner of some of the roughest cities in the U.S. in order to capture the essence of these thug trainers in their own elements.

Overall, our aim is to show viewers that you "don't need" to join an expensive health club or spend time behind bars to have a strong, good looking body. All you need to do is come and "thug it" with us!

Blade Steel is a larger than life, football star, ladies man and recklessly out of control. When Blade: (Dwight Clark), is arrested for drunk driving, the judge sentences him to 90 days community service teaching children at a community center. Reluctant to give this task much effort, Blade is in for the surprise of his life when a Kung Fu kicking angel named Bruce, is sent from heaven to help save himself.

Bruce, played by (George Chung); 3 time World Karate Champion, empowers Blade with the skills of Martial Arts and soon the football star is teaching the children of the center karate and learning some new lessons about caring and responsibility. Along the way Blade clashes with drug dealers who are trying to take over the community center. In the climax of the film, Blade unselfishly decides to take on the entire drug dealing mob, dishing out his own unique brand of mortal combat.

Real life football star: (Dwight Clark), played wide receiver for the San Francisco 49er's. During his celebrated career he won 2 Super Bowls, was voted Sports Illustrated Player Of The Year and was voted NFL All Pro Player. He is best known for the legendary catch he made against the Dallas Cowboy's during the 1981 Play-Offs propelling the 49er's into the "Decade of Dominance".

After six years with the Marines, Max Finister returns to the tough streets of the Bronx, only to find his childhood sweetheart, Lanette, and her little sister, Binita, entangled with New York's most dangerous drug lord.

When Max moves the girls upstate and out of harm's way, he ignites the kingpin's fury for revenge. With the mob in hot pursuit, Max begins to suspect Binita is in far deeper than she has led him to believe.

Max makes one last, desperate attempt at freedom for them all. What follows is a savage battle between a man desperate to save his family and a mobster holding on to his dark empire.

What's in store for a family that disregards a warning in a will and decides to accept their inheritance of a cursed house in Eerie, Pennsylvania? The answer is PLENTY, as John (Richard Benjamin) and Mary (Paula Prentiss) discover in this suspenseful comedy spoof.

A "Book of Evil" has been hidden in the house and when it's opened, it unleashes all the evil in the world. The family is warned that on "Friday the 13th it gets bad, but on Saturday the 14th, it gets worse!"

It's all outrageous fun as John and Mary and their children attempt to exterminate their troubles before their housewarming party just two days away on SATURDAY THE 14TH!

SPARE PARTS

The Honeymoon Inn isn't the best motel in town. It isn't even the nicest. Or the cheapest. But one thing is certain: the guests never leave unhappy—because they never leave at all! The Honeymoon Inn is actually a motor hotel of mayhem—and a grisly supply house for SPARE PARTS.

Newlyweds Mike and Monica Shepard find out for themselves during a fear-fraught and frenzied night of terror. Suspensions arise even as they check in to the roadhouse and the eccentric night manager expresses more than a casual interest in their backgrounds. Before long a mysterious ambulance begins silently prowling the area. Then Mike is kidnapped by a pair of sadistic medics, thrusting Monica into a nightmare of fear and paranoia. With the help of a skeptical but sympathetic truck driver named Bill, Monica devises a scheme to uncover the secret behind the mysterious motel and Mike's disappearance. What she ultimately finds leads to a ring of corrupt surgeons, an international black market organ bank and carefully calculated, cold-blooded murder!

Travelers beware: Once you've been picked as an unwilling donor for SPARE PARTS, death is only the beginning!

Beyond Star Wars, military powers are already experimenting with the next battleground: mind invasion and control through space. With world dominance at stake, they'll stop at nothing. In the name of research, a young astronaut is deliberately abandoned on the moon during a space mission so the potential of his mental power can be tested. The fury he unleashes is beyond all expectations—his mental scream and death throes reach out to beautiful young European interpreter Alice Campos, taking control of her mind.

The cruel, deadly experiment she sees in her mind as a film flashback pales as she is engulfed by a frightening reality beyond the wildest of dreams. Psychological terror explodes with vivid new dimensions in the nightmare of primal impulse.

Starring: Marilia Pera,

In the devastated urban rubble of New York's "Alphabet City" it's business as usual. Sex is cheap. Life is cheaper. Cocaine and heroin are over-the-counter drugs. And the streets are ruled by savage bands of half-wild children who grow up fast—or not at all.

With their wildly flamboyant godmother Rita La Punta (Pixote's Marilia Pera) calling the shots, an underage gang of Brazilian punks sets out to take over the Alphabet's lucrative drug trade. Then, Rita's strangely animalistic son falls for Carol (Linda Kerridge of Fade to Black), the luscious, uptown girlfriend of a rival drug lord.

Rita's grisly scheme to regain her boy's affections pits one gang against another in the bloody, startling climax to this macabre vision of inner city madness and mayhem.

SWEET SWEETBACK'S BAADASSSSSS SONG

ORIGINAL UNCUT VERSION

SWEET SWEETBACK'S BAADASSSSS SONG

"All the films about black people up to now," director Melvin Van Peebles told Newsweek in 1971, "have been told through the eyes of the Anglo-Saxon majority—in their rhythms and speech and pace. In my film, the black audience finally gets a chance to see some of their own fantasies acted out...rising out of the mud and kicking ass."

Sweet Sweetback's Baadasssss Song is the story of a young hustler (Van Peebles) whose aimless pleasure-seeking turns to radicalism after witnessing the beating of a Black revolutionary by two white cops. Seized with anger, Sweetback takes brutal revenge on the cops, forcing him into a desperate life on the run.

From a humble beginning of only two theaters and a torrent of negative reviews, Sweetback mushroomed to $10,000,000 at the box office, landing it on Daily Variety's list of top-grossing independent films. The film is widely credited with providing the inspiration for the so-called "Blaxploitation" film movement.

Don't move...don't breathe...don't let them hear your heart beating. Don't make a sound, or the Templars may find you!

In the 13th century, an evil cult of knights known as the Templars tortured and murdered innocent victims in a quest for eternal life. After a revolt from the local townspeople, the Templar knights were executed...their corpses left for the crows to peck out their eyes. Today, the Templar legend still haunts the land. Many believe that someday the undead spirits of this cult will rise to feed upon the blood of the living.

A group of people unknowingly stumble upon an abandoned monastery, the home of the Templars, from centuries before. As night falls, the terror begins...the eyeless, undead knights rise from their graves, hunting only by sound, to claim their victims.

Based on the novel by Colleen McCullough, "Tim" is the touching story of a relationship that defies the odds. Mel Gibson plays Tim, a young man with a mental disability who is hired as a handyman by a successful middle-aged businesswoman named Mary Horton (Piper Laurie). While their rapport remains professional at the onset, Mary begins to take a genuine interest in her naive, yet sensitive employee. When Tim's mother dies, he becomes more dependent on her presence and comforting words, and as time passes, a deeper passion grows between the two. Tim's sister does not approve of her younger brother's new romance, and the new couple meets more than their share of obstacles in a story that breaches the boundaries of love.

is better than the original.

The sequel is just as important to a film series as the original. It can be a bold change of direction or a dedication to genre. It can decide the direction of the franchise. It can commit to the essential ingredients of the story or abandon the plot entirely. The second installment is also what secures fandom. It's what we fall in love with; before sequels there are no expectations. Sequels can cement the bond between filmmaker and viewer—or fail spectacularly.

Halloween II was meant to be the final Michael Myers movie. It was criticized for its overt violence but after the box office disappointment of a Myers-less Halloween III: Season of the Witch, he returned for the fourth film.

Troll 2 was originally produced under the title Goblins and conceived as a comedy, but American distributors were nervous about its chance to succeed and decided to market it as a sequel to the horror film Troll. It's now considered to be far superior to its "predecessor."

In this volume, we present another 100 VHS tapes for your viewing pleasure, some of them sequels, some of them not. But what we hope to do with this second installment is bring you further into our world. We have such sights to show you.
